

healthbank Charter

At healthbank we hold the following core values as inalienable :

1. Our users have the right to own and control their health data.
2. Our users have the option to share their data with health care professionals, relatives, friends, service providers and/or researchers.
3. Data sharing always requires granular informed consent and this consent can always be withdrawn.
4. The healthbank platform does not access or make use of the users' data without obtaining permission from the users first.
5. The healthbank platform is neutral and independent and all reputable partners will have an opportunity to participate in our ecosystem, following our core values and code of conduct.
6. There is no exclusivity for services offered by any partner or by healthbank directly.

Everything we do, we do in service of our users and with unyielding integrity.
